

“Do You Struggle With Think & Grow Rich And Would Like Easier Ways To Discover The 13 Principles?”

If you feel that “Think & Grow Rich” is hard to read and sometimes struggle to make sense and remember it, then you're not alone...

When I first discovered “Think & Grow Rich”, I'll admit that also found approaching the subject matter in the work a little challenging. The irony is a lot of people give up before they even get to the 8th step on “Persistence”!

With this in mind, I decided to create this quick 2 page guide that I hope makes it easier for YOU to discover the 13 principles in Napoleon Hill's classic work.

I Wish You Every Success!

Understand Yourself

Different people acquire knowledge in different ways – it's simply a matter of discovering YOUR preference when it comes to exploring new ideas and concepts. Considered the following questions (and answer them honestly):

Question 1:

“If you were to start a new project without knowing anything about it, would you be the type of person who likes to begin with “the Big Picture” (to gain a good overview about what needs to be done) OR do you like Details (to see all the pieces of the puzzle) first?”

What did you answer? If you answered “Big Picture”, then this guide is for you. If you answered “Details”, then you're probably okay with diving straight into the eBook!

Question 2:

“How you normally like to gain information and take on new ideas?”

- By Listening?
- By Seeing (pictures / illustrations / visual examples)?
- OR By Reading?

If you answered “Reading”, then go straight to the eBook (if you pass “Go”, collect $200 etc.). If you answered “Listening” or “Seeing”, then the next section will help you get the most out of “Think & Grow Rich”!

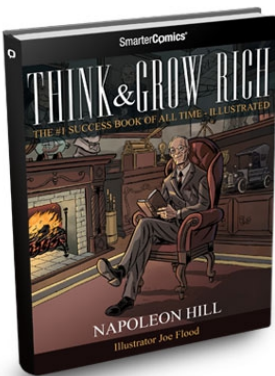

Discovering New Ideas, Made Easy

Ever notice how it's much easier to expand your knowledge when you already know something? The mind works best when you have something to attach new ideas to... a bit like a coat-hanger! Big Picture people can often get bored if they feel it takes too long to get to grips with new concepts... Does that sound like YOU?
